

TalentCrank is different

In a world of quickly changing technologies, the best technical teams have access to developer resources. Access to augmented resources is critical for success, especially when the team is building with an unfamiliar platform or up against a tight deadline. Most companies turn to staffing agencies with little to no technical knowledge who match buzzwords from descriptions to provide stacks of resumes and even profit from their own backfills.

TalentCrank is different. Rather than a collection of recruiters and sales agents hustling to make a placement fee, we're a community of elite technologists partnering with great companies across the U.S.

TalentCrank is an international community of elite technologists building highly custom applications in Modern Web, Mobile and IoT for high-performing companies across the U.S.

TalentCrank is born out of an App Dev Agency. We started as Crank211, delivering world class applications for high-end clients such as Microsoft / Xbox, Starz and Kimberly Clark. Our world-class developer community work with leading-edge technologies that include .NET, iOS, and the latest JavaScript frameworks such as Angular.
